Uproar Gains Volume Over Slippery John's Escape From Prison

San Brown, Guard, 34 Years Old, Said to be Man Locked in Cell Five Minutes Before Outlaw Escaped—Chicago Police Will Send Him Back in "Wooden Box."

Chicago, March 9 (AP)—The uproar over slippery John Dillinger's walk-out reached a new high today with a charge that a fingerprint expert asked a special guard in a cell a few minutes before the outlaw escaped the Crown Point, Ind., jail.

Attorney General Philip Lutz, Jr., of Indiana said at Indianapolis that guard Brown, 34, was the guard locked in. He said that the aged man testified to Assistant Attorney General Edward Barce that Ernest Blunk, fingerprint expert at the jail, locked a door on him "before I realized I had been decoyed into the cell."

Shortly afterward, the guard was quoted as saying, Dillinger appeared in the jail corridor, armed with a machine gun. Blunk is free on bond on a charge of misfeasance. He and Sam Cahoon, another jail attaché, were arrested recently in connection with the desperado's escape.

The attorney general's statement was but one of a series of repercussions that have followed Dillinger's escape last Saturday.

Chicago police, receiving new reports he had been seen here were making plans to capture Dillinger and send him back to Indiana "in a wooden box." Officials at Washington also took cognizance of the situation. Attorney General Cummings criticized Sheriff Lillian Holley and Prosecutor Robert G. Estill of Crown Point for posing for a picture with Dillinger.

Sheriff Holley denied she had posed with the outlaw, but Sanford Bates, federal prison director, issued an order to discontinue use of the Crown Point jail for the confinement of government prisoners.

Judge William F. Murray of Crown Point discharged the March grand jury. He announced that special grand jurors would be called and that a special prosecutor would supplement Estill in the investigation.

Beginning that this Dillinger case is beginning to smolder, the judge added that "the present grand jury could not properly investigate the escape. The foreman, Clyde Rothermel, owns the garage from which Dillinger stole the sheriff's car (in which Dillinger fled) and is the employer of Edward Sanger whom Dillinger kidnapped with him for a few hours."

NEW DEAL SET FOR BOTH NATIONAL PARTY MACHINES

Washington, March 9 (AP)—A new line-up in the high command of both major parties is taking form swiftly. This political "new deal" results, in part, from President Roosevelt's declaration for divorce of political lawyers and other party figures from practice before government bodies.

The resignation of one Democratic committeeman after another because of a law practice or a federal job is going to be followed shortly by a similar shakeup of the Republican national committee.

A sizeable Republican group is openly casting about for a successor to Everett Sanders, Republican national chairman and Washington lawyer. Its attention just now is focused on the veteran James E. Watson of Indiana, former party leader in the senate.

"If the Republican party would come back," Senator Nye, North Dakota independent, said today, "it must accomplish a change in leadership from the party committee chairmanship on down."

The Democrats, too, are looking for a new chairman. James A. Farley has stated that as soon as he has cleared the party slate he wants to be relieved of the national chairmanship to devote more time to his duties as postmaster general.

COLLEGE WOMEN'S CLUB CORD PARTY FOR SCHOLARSHIP

Each year the College Women's Club of this city raises a fund which is to provide a college scholarship for some member of the senior class of Kingston High School, who might otherwise not have the immediate college privileges after graduation from her alma mater in this city.

In order to increase this year's fund the College Women's Club will hold a card party at the Governor Clinton Hotel Saturday afternoon of this week beginning at 2 o'clock. In addition to the games there will be a sale of home-made food and the Kingston college women are asking for the generous support of the friends of education as well as of the College Women's Club.

The committee having the card party in charge is composed of Mrs. Halverson, Mrs. Dumm, Mrs. Haver, Miss Brooks, Miss Eney and Miss Joyce.

Madriz: Newspapers Cannot Call Papers By Name Any Longer.

Madriz, March 3 (AP)—Newspaper carriers are prohibited from shouting the name of the newspapers they are selling in an order issued today by Jose Valdivia, director of public safety.

Henceforth they can cry "morning papers" or "evening papers." The measure is designed to prevent battles between vendors of rightist and leftist journals.

Lieut. Otto Wienecke, Army Air Mail Pilot, Crashes To His Death Was Officer at Boiceville Camp

First Pilot of Eastern Division of Army Air Mail to Die While Flying the Mail, Was for Eight Months Commander at Ulster County C. C. C. Unit—Crackup Occurred on Farm Near Cleveland—Rated "One of Army's Very Best Flyers."

Chardon, O., March 9 (AP)—Army air mail Pilot Otto Wienecke, flying from Newark, N. J., to Cleveland with the mail, crashed to his death in the midst of a heavy snow squall this morning on a farm northwest of Burton, near here.

Chardon is about 20 miles directly east of Cleveland.

The plane was destroyed, but ten bags of mail were salvaged and brought to the postoffice here.

John Hess, a farmer in whose pasture the plane crashed, said he and several neighbors heard the plane's motor about 5 a. m. (EST). It apparently was sputtering, and Hess rushed out in time to see the crash.

The crash was reported to army mail headquarters in Cleveland, but officers there were unable to further identify the pilot.

Coroner Philip Pease reported looking at the ship's altimeter and finding a reading of 600 feet.

Hess said Wienecke apparently had no opportunity to save himself. His safety belt was still hooked when the farmer reached his side.

N. G. Osmond, a neighbor, also reported hearing the plane, and helped Hess call Sheriff Harry O. Hill, who took charge of the body.

Hess declared the snow was coming down in a heavy swirl at the time of the accident.

Six Other Deaths

Since the army took over the mail flights, six other army pilots have been killed, either while flying mail, making unofficial flights, or reporting to army posts.

Wienecke left with the mail from Newark Airport at 11 o'clock last night.

Lieut. George F. Shulgen, control officer of the Newark-Cleveland division of the air mail operations said Wienecke was stationed at Mitchell Field, Long Island, before he was assigned to fly the air mail, along with other army pilots.

Asked if he had anything further to say on the fatal crash, the lieutenant said:

"I guess not."

He said, however, that the weather report received last night prior to Wienecke's take-off was favorable.

Highways Were A Solid Glare of Ice

Motorists Found It Impossible To Ascend Any Hill Without Aid of Chains—Two Inches of Snow Fell.

The springlike weather which came in with March had a slight setback Thursday afternoon when snow began to fall and the thermometer dropped to below freezing. Some two inches of snow fell before the storm passed and motorists who were out during the evening found going extremely difficult. Highways were a solid glare of ice and it was impossible to ascend any hill without aid of chains and frequently they did little good until the hills had been sanded.

Difficulty was experienced on the steep hill at the lower end of Saugerties village where traffic was tied up until a crew had sanded the hill. One large trailer-truck attempted to make the grade only to slide back to the foot of the hill.

Another truck attempted to make it and failed. Then several passenger cars came along and made an attempt to get up but their attempts brought them to grief in the ditch. Chains were of no aid on this hill until it had been sanded. Fortunately the only damage was to pieces of timid drivers.

Traffic Obstructed In Auto Mixup

Many motor vehicles were held up Thursday evening on Milton avenue, Highland, near the monument. A large milk truck and trailer which attempted to make the hill failed and backed down partly obstructing traffic. Before that jam was opened up a Greyhound bus traveling down the hill skidded and completely obstructed traffic. Later a delivery truck added to the complications.

Sergeant Lockhart and Trooper Lynn Baker were called on the job and the milk truck finally with the aid of chains applied after the hill had been sanded was able to move up the hill and traffic was straightened out.

The highway department had gangs of men at work Thursday night sanding the hills and curves along the main highways. Today a bright sun gradually melted the ice although in some places the highways were still slippery in shaded places.

"One of Army's Best"

New York, March 9 (AP)—First Lieut. Otto Wienecke, 32, who was killed when his plane crashed early this morning near Burton, Ohio, was rated as "one of the army's very best flyers" by officers at Floyd Bennett Field.

He was a graduate of all primary and advanced army flying schools including the balloon and airship training school. He ranked as an airplane observer and pilot and a balloon observer.

Wienecke enlisted as a private in 1920 and became a second lieutenant in the army air corps in 1925. In January of this year he began flying the mail after spending eight months in command of a C. C. C. detachment at Boiceville, Ulster county. He was unmarried and is survived by his parents who live in Patchogue, L. I.

First Eastern Death

Captain Stanley J. Grogan of the army information service stated that Wienecke was the first pilot of the eastern division of the army air mail to die while flying the mail.

A Boiceville Favorite

Lieutenant Wienecke was for several months commanding officer at the C. C. C. camp at Boiceville, where, due to his organizing ability and personality, he was able to build a morale and personnel which drew the highest praise from administration officials.

From time to time during his time at Boiceville he would spend furloughs and army training periods at Mitchell Field on Long Island. Around the middle of February Lieutenant Wienecke was transferred from the camp to Mitchell Field and was assigned shortly afterward by the war department to one of the army mail planes. His first scheduled flight was Monday, February 19.

Aided in August Flood

During the severe floods which swept the Catskills in August of last year, Lieutenant Wienecke and his staff of forest workers did much quiet work to aid flood sufferers and reconstruction gangs.

News of the former C. O.'s death undoubtedly will cause sorrow at the mountain forestry camp, for he was a favorite with the men.

Man Is Ungrateful, Marconi Tells Rome

Rome, March 9 (AP)—Man is ungrateful to a benefactor when he lays his woes to the machine, says Guglielmo Marconi. The wireless wizard and famed scientist told Premier Mussolini that last night in a speech that won much attention today in a Fascist press.

"Man's sheer selfishness" drew the fire of Marconi as, in the presence of Italy's scientific elect, he gave his report as president of the National Research Council.

"The defective distribution of wealth and resources and, above all, human selfishness, have cheated us of the benefits the machine brought," he said. The council, he said, will work tirelessly to distribute employment among the people and reduce fatigue through proper utilization of machines.

During the speech Il Duce nodded emphatic approval.

Insurance Case

Testimony Ends

Testimony in the action brought by George H. Taylor of Ellenville against the Prudential Insurance Company of America to recover under a policy of insurance, was concluded this morning in supreme court before Judge Adel and a jury. A recess was taken in order to frame questions to be submitted to the jury. Summation and charge followed.

An attorney in the employ of the Veterans Bureau was called and testified that a file he produced was made on an application made by Mr. Taylor for service connected disability. He stated that no compensation was ever given under that application although compensation in another form was given.

Chain Store Tax Bill Now Before Assembly

Albany, N. Y., March 9 (AP)—Another bill to tax chain stores was introduced in the state legislature today by Assemblyman Jay E. Rice, Queens Republican, who stated a similar measure in Indiana had been held constitutional.

A tax of $2 for one store is provided in the measure, with the fee increasing with the number of stores as follows: $50 each from ten to five, $250 each from five to ten, $500 each from ten to 20, and $1,000 each for all over 20.

Commenting on his bill, Mr. Rice said "It would bring in additional revenue and would check the growing chain stores in every line of business, once more returning individuals to private enterprise."

Snow Removal Has Cost Kingston The Sum Of $8,453.92

Leaving a Balance of About $1,000 in the Snow Removal Fund to Take Care of Snowfall Until the First of Next January—$10,000 Was Placed in Budget for Snow Removal.

The city of Kingston has expended the sum of $8,453.92 for the removal of snow from the streets of the last two snowstorms here. This leaves a balance of about $1,500 in the snow removal fund to take care of snow removal until the first of next January.

The first snowstorm cost the city $4,955.79 for labor and truck hire and the second storm cost $4,388.13.

In the budget for this year was included the sum of $10,000 for snow removal, which is the amount usually placed in the budget for that purpose.

If a period of warmer weather and rain had not followed the last snowstorm it is likely that the amount placed in the budget for snow removal would have been exceeded this month.

The officers were sent into the area on instructions from Governor B. M. Miller, after Sheriff A. N. Barrentine had reported the situation in Walker county out of his control.

The sheriff wired Governor Miller yesterday after between 200 and 300 miners, armed with guns and clubs, had marched on the coal valley mines of the Debardeleben Coal Company, in an effort to enlist workers there in the strike.

"The strike situation in Walker county is most serious," the sheriff wired. "Hundreds of men are marching with guns and clubs, in order to preserve human life. I ask that you send troops quickly to assist in keeping order."

8th Army Aviator Killed, 2 Injured

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 9 (AP)—Private Ernest B. Sell was killed today when an army bomber mail plane fell a few minutes after it had taken off from the local airport.

Lieut. W. M. Reid, pilot, and Floyd Marshall, a private, were injured. The motor failed and the plane fell in a heavily wooded section two miles south of this city.

Since the army took over the air mail, seven other army pilots have been killed. The seventh fatality came near Chardon, Ohio, this morning when Lieut. Otto Wienecke, flying from Newark, N. J., to Cleveland, crashed in the midst of a snowstorm.

Private Sell's skull was crushed. He never regained consciousness. Marshall suffered a broken arm and bruises and was rushed to the hospital. Lieut. Reid refused to go to hospital for an examination until he had reported to authorities in Jacksonville and Miami.

Call Out National Guard in Alabama To Patrol Strikes

More Than 4,000 Coal Miners Strike Demanding "Check Off System"—Sheriff Requests Guard.

Birmingham, Ala., March 9 (AP)—Three companies of Alabama National Guard were mobilized early today for patrol duty in the strike stricken areas of Walker county, where more than 4,000 coal miners have struck demanding the "check off system."

In announcing the mobilization order, Brigadier General John C. Persons said, "No violence has been reported in the area, but mobs have been marching around trying to intimidate those men who want to work. The troops were called out upon the request of the sheriff of Walker county."

The mobilization order was issued after Col. Walter M. Thompson, of the 15th Infantry, with three other officers had made a survey of the situation.

The officers were sent into the area on instructions from Governor B. M. Miller, after Sheriff A. N. Barrentine had reported the situation in Walker county out of his control.

COLLAPSES WHILE ON TRIAL IN FEDERAL COURT THURSDAY

Edward W. Meyer, for ten years a mail carrier stationed at the Post Office Annex, Grand Central Terminal, collapsed with a heart attack in Federal court Thursday following cross-examination before Judge Robert Inch and a jury during his trial on a charge of pilfering money from letters entrusted to him for delivery.

Assistant United States Attorney Morris Kanfer had just completed the cross-examination of Meyer, during which he forced him to read an alleged confession, and the defendant was making his way back to the defense table when he slumped to the floor.

A nurse from the Post Office clinic was called to the court room and she summoned an ambulance from the Brooklyn Street Hospital after administering restoratives.

Although both sides have rested in the case an adjournment was taken for several days in order to allow Meyer to recover. He is charged with taking $1 from a decoy letter addressed to the offices of the Forum. According to the confession, which he has repudiated, he rifled 25 such letters during January.

Germany Says She Is Going to Rearm

Geneva, March 9 (AP)—Disarmament is an illusion, says Germany, hence she is going to rearm. But in a document published today for the first time, she promised to be moderate.

With disarmament reaching a crisis, the League of Nations issued simultaneously in Geneva, London, Berlin and Paris a collection of all disarmament documents exchanged by those governments.

Revelations through publication deepened pessimism here over prospects of disarmament and concerning the political situation in Europe. France retorted that Germany that Reich had already begun to rearm in defiance of treaties.

Declaring her readiness to disarm "down to the last gun," Germany maintained disarmament of other European countries hinges on the reduction of armaments in every corner of the world, but "nobody believes any longer in the possibility of a general international disarmament."

House Democrats Ride Veterans' Aid Bill Toward Certain Veto

Scuttle Their Leaders' Plans To Save The Roosevelt Economy Program By Caucus Rule—Lines Shatter Despite Word That the President Was Certain To Veto the Bill If House Adopted the Amendments.

Washington, March 9 (AP)—House Democrats rode a veterans' aid bill toward certain veto today after scuttling their leaders' plans to save the Roosevelt economy program by caucus rule.

A four hour effort to bind the Democratic membership to a compromise ended in failure last night. A majority stood adamant for amendments to the Independent Offices supply bill that added $350,000,000 for veterans and federal employees to its total.

The caucus was told in strong words that the President was certain to veto the bill if the house adopted the amendments, which would wreck the $400,000,000 economy act passed a year ago. But the lines shattered nevertheless.

Representative Byrns of Tennessee, the Democratic leader, offered a resolution to send the $424,000,000 appropriation bill to conference without instructions. This met defeat, with 130 voting for the resolution and 78 against. A two-thirds vote is required to bind the Democrats.

This final effort came even after the Byrns resolution was amended 115 to 83 to provide a restoration of 75 per cent of the previous benefits to Spanish-American War and World War veteran presumptive cases.

Speaking with vehemence, Chairman Buchanan (D-Texas) of the Appropriations Committee, who earlier had headed a delegation to the White House to obtain President Roosevelt's views, warned the members to stand by the executive or suffer the rebuke of a veto.

But the veterans' bloc remained adamant. Representative Browning (D-Tenn) then offered his amendment to instruct the conferees to hold out for a return of 75 per cent of the veterans' benefits.

It carried only after a bitter fight in which party chieftains harangued their colleagues to leave the conferees free to effect a compromise.

This is the second time a proposal by Browning has wrecked the party leaders' control on economy. Last year he offered in caucus an amendment to the economy act that broke up the meeting. The leaders barely escaped being bound to vote against the President.

Speaker Rainey said the bill would be brought up in the house next week, after the vote on the cash payment of the soldiers' bonus. Each amendment will be voted on separately before the measure is sent to conference.

Advocates of the "greenback bonus" bill, which is also threatened by a veto, evidently predicted today that it will pass on Monday.

The house began consideration today of the Bankhead compulsory cotton control bill while the senate moved toward passage of the Jones-Connelly bill to make cattle a basic commodity under the AAA.

Both senate and house leaders, now predicting an adjournment in May, even if some major measure is laid aside, foresee probably the biggest battle over the tariff issue. That and the appropriation bills are most desired by the president.

CWA Strike Possible At Hoosick Falls Today

Hoosick Falls, N. Y., March 9 (AP)—A strike by 50 skilled workers repairing four village schools in a $50,000 CWA project loomed today in protest to a 45 cent reduction in their hourly wage.

Vote of the men at an indignation meeting Wednesday night could not be learned yesterday, but school officials stated they believed the decision would be apparent today. The workers, obtained from throughout the eastern section of the state, were joined by common laborers whose hourly rate was reduced to 40 cents from 50.

W. Leon Hatt, superintendent of Union Free School District One, which includes the village, said the men were employed repairing the high school and three grammar school buildings. He said the village some months ago voted $25,000 for the work and this sum was expended by an equal amount from the CWA.

Arbor Days to Be Held in N. Y. State

In a proclamation made public today, Dr. Frank P. Graves, commissioner of education, designated April 20th, April 27th and May 4th as the days to be observed as Arbor Day in various sections of the State.

The commissioner designated April 13th for the observance of Bird Day.

The Arbor Day proclamation of Commissioner Graves follows:

The laws of the state have designated as Arbor Day, the time of the annual observation of Arbor Day. Each year I find this a congenial and pleasant duty, for it is at all times a good thing to turn our thoughts to the many blessings that Nature has showered upon us. And in these days, distressed as we are by the conditions that confront us, we are especially grateful to find in the eternal miracle of spring the comfort and solace, the courage and hope that better days lie ahead.

When snows lie deepest and the blasts of winter are most severe, we know that at the proper time all will be green and fair again, that blossoms will appear on branch and bush and the songsters of the air will return to cheer us with their happy notes. A springtime of the enjoyment of Nature's bounty begins.

To partake of these blessings is the privilege of all. They are spread for us with lavish hand. To give as well as to receive these blessings is also our privilege, so that those who come after us may, like us, find sustenance for physical needs and the joy that comes from companionship with tree and flower and every living thing. So we plant trees on Arbor Day and care for them, and commemorate in our programs the infinite goodness of Nature.

Therefore, April 20th, April 27th, and May 4th are herewith designated as Arbor Day, and with local school authorities is placed the responsibility to determine which date will best serve each community, and to conduct such programs as are agreeable and fitting.

May we find in this year's observance of Arbor Day the peace and the happiness that come from working in harmony with Nature and from contemplating the many benefactions she has bestowed upon a weary but hopeful world.

Doumergue Curbs Treasury Grabs; Tells France To Amend Constitution

By JOHN EVANS

Paris (AP)—France is about ready to change her constitution to protect her pocketbook from parliament.

Premier Doumergue crystallized thought on the subject when he said the chamber of deputies should be prohibited from initiating or increasing proposed expenditures.

Hundreds of deputies, privately, have approved the idea but few, publicly, liked to lead the way. Now there is free discussion of it.

First Steps Taken

Furthermore, by heeding Doumergue's demand for budget action with less debate and by giving the determined veteran powers to effect government economies and manipulate tariffs, the chamber is considered by many of its members to have taken the first steps toward a practical realization of the reform.

Parliament would retain the right to approve and to diminish appropriations proposed by the government but the plan would be to save it from itself by cancelling the chamber's prerogative to spend the people's money on its own initiative.

At the same time, many deputies contend, there should be drastic reform of parliamentary rules to eliminate red tape, limit debate and prevent what Americans know as "pork barrel" tactics.

Budgets Go Into Red

Never does a government put through a budget without having to fight usually unsuccessfully to prevent special appropriations for favored districts. After the budget is adopted there are always special measures with no provision for raising money to pay the bill.

Budgets, therefore, balanced at the time of passage, soon were in the red, especially in these times of depression when income is overestimated by short-lived cabinets whose members know they won't be in power when reckoning comes.

Doumergue took the British parliament as his example in proposing the chamber should not spend money except upon the cabinet's proposal.

Would Limit New Jobs

That method, it is argued by proponents, would make easy many economies and would prevent enormous expenditures such as the present French social insurance plan. It would prevent, also, many schemes for the government to take over industries for the sake of party programs or to create new jobs.

Already the government has on its payroll 850,000 persons who draw

Phases of Juvenile Crime Prevention

Explained By Chief Wood at Kiwanis Club Luncheon—Failure of Parents to Obey Laws Lined by Police Chief.

"The child's disrespect for law often begins with his disrespect for the authority of his parents," stated Chief of Police J. Allan Wood in an address to members of the Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday noon, when the chief explained some "Phases of Juvenile Crime Prevention." It was his contention that in many cases the failure of parents to obey laws and set good examples inspired the child to follow his parents, and from small crimes the desire grew to get away with greater violations.

Following the luncheon it was announced that on April 6, the noon luncheon would be a "father-daughter" affair, and that those who did not have daughters should get them, with "no age limit set." One of the members calmly announced that he would reserve an entire table for "his daughters."

The Rev. Dr. Lucas Boeve, chairman of the resolutions committee, read a resolution upon the death of the Rev. O. E. Brandt, while the members stood with bowed heads, after which the "dominoes" favorite song, "Men of Kiwanis" was sung in passing tribute to a beloved brother.

Roger Loughran, chairman of the program committee, introduced Chief Wood, saying that a number of prominent speakers would be heard from time to time on the general topic of crime prevention, and that the speaker would take up the "juvenile phases of the problem."

Opening his remarks the speaker explained that the children he was about to speak of were known as juvenile delinquents, those between the ages of seven and 16 years, who had violated some law. He stated that many cases of crime violations by these children never reached children's court either because the parents were indifferent or because the citizen concerned did not want to press charges.

In his opinion children's court and the probation officer were doing a good work, because it was possible for the court to study the case and if needed recommend probation and that the probation officer could then supervise the activities of the child. Chief Wood said that the police department was looked at in a dual sense, both as punisher and educator, and that often it was necessary to be rough, although the officers tried to be reasonable and courteous.

Besides the example of indifferent and careless parents, Chief Wood saw a menace in what he called the "temptation of the street." Explaining he stated that few crimes were committed while children were in school, but most of them took place while the child was not under supervision. He encouraged children to join city organizations. He also suggested that the Kiwanis Club sponsor a campaign for the prevention of crime, and suggested that an educational mass meeting might be the proper beginning. Another suggestion offered was the children be supervised while playing in the city parks.

In conclusion he explained that

Herman Wendt motored up from Long Island Saturday to spend the week-end at the Wendt summer home on the state road. Herman's many friends here were glad to see him again.

The pavement on the north boulevard is in bad condition at several points between West Hurley and Boiceville. There are several spots in the road, most of them between Ashokan and Glenford, where the macadam has heaved a foot or more above the surface. The number of these soft places appears to be increasing daily. Not in years has the reservoir boulevard been so seriously affected by frost and drainage conditions.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cruthers of Ridgefield Park, N. J., spent the week-end with their friend, Mrs. Margaret Rainey, of the village center.

Justice R. H. Loughran of Hurley was a caller here Wednesday evening while enroute to Shandaken on legal business.

Mrs. Fred Herschenroeder of the mountain road is pending some time in New York city.

Alfred Rose has returned to the high school after having been kept from his classes by an attack of the mumps.

Mrs. Josephine Nadal is again at the Nadal homestead in the heights section.

A real estate transfer of March 8, 1886, was that of a parcel of land on the west side of the Esopus Creek from John M. Burgher to Mathias Burgher. The farm of J. M. Burgher near Shokan contained 119 acres of land.

There were 13 members present at the March meeting of the Ladies Aid Society of the Reformed Church, held Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Golden Van Buren, on the north boulevard.

Mrs. August Pfau presided at the business session in the absence of the president, Mrs. Frank Barringer, who is ill. The ladies decided to hold a card party next Wednesday evening at the residence of Mrs. Homer Markle. The April meeting will take place at Mrs. Markle's.

There will be a big minstrel show at the I. O. O. F. hall in Tongore on Friday evening, March 23, for the benefit of the Olive Bridge Baseball Club. A dance will follow the show and refreshments will be served. The affair furnishes a good opportunity for Olive folks to spend an enjoyable evening and at the same time lend financial encouragement to the home ball team.

Mrs. Earl North is confined to her home on the mountain road by an attack of the mumps.

Lyle Wager and Fred Weeks, Jr., are employed on the Mt. Tremper bridge construction job.

Mr. and Mrs. John Moore of Rich Falls spent last Sunday with friends in the west end of the village.

Henry D. Brierty of Boston was a caller in Shokan recently.

Mrs. Frank Myers of the north boulevard is convalescing from a recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. George Farley of Ashokan are enjoying a motor trip through the south.

March 9, 1898, the Olive Sunday School Association met at the Acorn Hill Wesleyan Methodist Chapel. Officers present were the Rev. I. P. Gott, president, and Hugh Donohue, secretary. Prayers were offered by Benjamin Merriew of Krumville and Morris Ostrander of The Vly. The evening session prayer was made by Freeman Barringer, superintendent of the Winchell's school. The Rev. Mr. Gott, pastor of the West Side Baptist Church, in the absence of the Rev. Lewis F. Piper and the Rev. George Niemeyer, the scheduled speakers, preached a sermon from Psalms 1:3. Closing prayer was made by the Rev. Mr. Ashton, pastor of the Tongore and Samsonville M. E. Churches.

C. H. Stokes of Kerhonkson made a business call here Monday. Another Kerhonkson resident in town recently was Jerry Van Kleeck, who delivered stovewood to customers in the village.

George Whittle, well known farmer residing in the town of Hurley near the Olive line, celebrated his 71st birthday Monday, March 5. Mr. Whittle, who is a native of the Boiceville section, has resided on his present farm near Kenosia Lake for the last 35 years.

Trucks filled with C. C. C. men from Camp No. 2 now make daily trips between Boiceville and Samsonville where the woodmen are finishing up the fire trail from the head of Watson Hollow through the Canape and over Mombacous Mountain. The next step in the trail making job will be the construction of a bridge at the junction of the Bushkill and Canape streams.

The Shokan Social Eight met last Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Grossman in the west end of the village.

Emmett Ganter, Shokan's Beau Brummel, has laid aside his bearskin coat pending the return of cold weather.

The members of the Reformed Sunday School are planning to hold a pancake supper in the church hall at a date to be announced later.

Arthur Carter, well known heights farmer, has been ill with a bad cold.

Mrs. Albert Carman of Rensselaer spent last Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bedell.

Mrs. Jennie Green entertained several of her friends at bridge Tuesday afternoon.

New Paltz Pastor Recalled to Pulpit

New Paltz, March 8.—The Fourth Quarterly Conference was held in the Methodist Episcopal Church Tuesday evening, March 6. A covered dish supper was served at 6:30 with the Ladies Aid Society in charge. This got together affair was much enjoyed by about 75 members of the congregation, singing of familiar songs a feature of the supper hour.

The conference with the Rev. Dr. Peter C. Weyant district superintendent presiding, opened with singing "Blest Be the Tie" and prayer by the Rev. John Follette. All then sang a hymn after which Mr. Weyant gave a very helpful message which led up to the business, reports of officers were read and acted upon. Representatives of the Lloyd Methodist Church were present and gave their reports. Lists of committees for the coming year were read and accepted.

A hearty invitation was extended to the Rev. Robert L. Mauserstock, the pastor, to return for the third year. All present enjoyed a very pleasant evening. And by their presence showed their interest in the work that has been accomplished during the year. The congregation is looking forward to the return of their present pastor with much enthusiasm.

THE MILK AND BUTTER
The American Dairy Farmers' Association has issued a statement regarding the recent price fluctuations in the milk and butter markets. The statement notes that the prices have been subject to considerable variation due to changes in supply and demand. The association is working to stabilize the market and ensure fair prices for both producers and consumers.

JUDITH'S CHOICE
JUDITH thought of this a few nights later. They had left part of their mead to assist the natives in rebuilding their adobe houses. Others were carrying fresh supplies from the nearest Rio Fort town, the country seat of Rio Mar.

KILLERS
The League of Ohio Sportsmen and the Izaak Walton League got together recently in a joint session with the State Conservation Council and listed their common public enemies. These were given as the black crow, the domestic cat, the great horned owl and the fox. The crow was charged with destroying bird life by killing fledglings and eating eggs. The villainous crow also kills small rabbits. The cat, they declared, is all right when it is kept home, but when it wanders over country roads and farms it kills small game and birds. The great horned owl, according to the sportsmen, is an odious creature which kills merely for the joy of killing, a single owl doing away with 50 rabbits in a year. The fox, it was admitted, is economical, killing for food and eating everything he kills, but still guilty of "killing consistently."

FOREIGN DEBT PAYMENTS.
A message from the President to Congress on foreign debts is expected as soon as some of the more immediate domestic problems are disposed of. It will show special good will toward debtors who have made an honest effort to pay, and will probably propose a compromise by which Uncle Sam can get something out of that vast debt structure before it collapses.

LOW BACKACHE DUE TO INJURY.
When a pain in the lower back occurs the first thought is rheumatism or arthritis, whereas in former days any pain in the back was thought to be due to trouble in the kidneys. When it was learned that the kidneys are about midway down the back instead of at the lower end, all pain in lower back was called rheumatism, lumbago, or arthritis.

CONFIDENTIAL
The administration's own advice as to the popularity of the President's course are much mixed. From some sections strong support is reported; in others, the Underberg protest, the army mail casualties and the objections raised in congress are described as having made a deep impression.

CODE FOR ROLLER SKATERS.
The National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters submit a safety code for roller skaters. Serious skating accidents have increased rapidly. There are now from two to five times as many as there were a year ago. This is learned from a survey in twenty American cities.

THE GAMBLING BILLIONS.
One of the many useful facts dug up by the federal committee on banking and currency has to do with the "call" or "street" loan activities of corporations not supposed to be in the banking business. In the year 1929, it has discovered, 29 corporations lent a total of $20,527,000.00 for stock gambling. Chief among them were the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

POLITICS at Random
By BYRON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)
MORE than one up-for-election republican now is banking heavily on use of the airmail cancellations as a campaign issue. It is the intention to link the President's cancellation order with general charges of attempted dictatorship. It is argued that Mr. Roosevelt denied the aviation companies any real hearing of their side.

Lenin Embalmers Find Body Perfect After Full Decade

Moscow (AP).—The two soviet scientists who for ten years have been responsible for the preservation of Lenin's body, are hopeful that the embalming methods they employ will be effective indefinitely.

The body, which lies in a glass-encased catafalque in a great granite tomb in Red Square, recently was examined by a special commission of scientists and pronounced in perfect condition.

"We had to use unprecedented methods in the performance of our task," said a statement from Professor V. P. Vorobiev and B. I. Zbarski, the biologists who regularly attend the body. "Embalmed Egyptian bodies turned dark and became mummified but Lenin's body has remained intact, kept its natural color and even the facial expression has not changed."

Without revealing the secret of their process, the two men who recently were awarded the Order of Lenin for their work, predicted that the body will last "many tens of years" longer. Lenin died January 21, 1924.

"NOT CONSTIPATED FOR SEVEN WEEKS"

Writes Mrs. Johnson After Using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Sufferers from constipation will be interested in this unsolicited letter:

"Your ALL-BRAN surely relieves constipation. I am so glad over the good it has done me that I feel I must write and tell you of it."

"For lunch I take a banana, a large one. Six tablespoons of ALL-BRAN in a sauce dish, and dip banana at each bite until all is consumed. I haven't been constipated now for seven weeks."—Mrs. Louise Johnson, 1433 Forest Street, Denver, Colorado.

Constipation often causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. This condition is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further promote regular habits. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the wastes.

Try ALL-BRAN in place of patent medicines—often harmful. Two tablespoons daily will overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Trimming Expressive of Spring

NAVY AND WHITE OF COURSE

New York.—The amount of trimming being used this season is not surprising to those who have read the prophets and thus been prepared for the spectacle. That a good deal of the trimming is of self fabric, or handwork is, however, new.

Fagotting, shirring, even embroidery of sorts has reappeared, not to mention pleats, stitched down to form a set design. We were prepared for ruffles, having worn them this winter, but it is well to mention in connection with them, that whether net is used, which it is, in great variety, or whether it's the stiffer silks, ruffling is regarded as a pretty and proper treatment. Some of the very smartest ruffles are box-pleated.

How upon row of shirring was one of the approved Victorian trimmings and here we have it covering the entire jacket of one of the sheer crepe suits that have captured our fancy. You will find the shirred wrap a factor for summer, whether it be a little wrap belonging to a special gown, or an independent one to be worn with many.

Capelets, in evening wrap collections, are distinctly "frou-frou" and run to nets, tulle and satins. This reminds me to report that satin evening clothes were impressive by point of number at Palm Beach and Miami, and that the loveliest cream-in-your-coffee shade was very much worn. Also very pale blue and bon bon pink, with wraps, short, frou-frou kinds, to match.

Preparing to Be Wind-blown

When daytime clothes are not narrow, the fullness is almost always at back. This is true of full length coats, swinging loose from the shoulders at back, of shorter jackets similarly cut, of skirts with a little circular fullness starting near the knees at back. For evening, the back fullness theme is not new, but it has greatly increased in volume; in most cases, however, the skirt is not actually fuller, but ruffles or a drape build out the line.

PALENTOWN.

Palentown, March 8.—William Fellman and Oliver Gray were callers in Kingston recently.

Mrs. Orin Lee and daughter, Jennie, called on Mrs. John Traver Thursday afternoon.

Shirley, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Gray, is visiting her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Tanager, at Kyserville. Mr. Hartley had men busy last week building and filling an ice house. He contemplates building a barn in the near future.

George Lyons was in Kingston on Sunday visiting his mother, Mrs. Arena D. Lyons, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia. All her friends were exceedingly glad to learn she is now able to be up around her room.

Jerry Decker and family of Tabasco visited Oliver Gray and family on Sunday.

Mrs. Alex Brown of Leibhardt spent a couple of days with her son, Harry F. Brown, and family, this week.

Mrs. Orin Lee is assisting Mrs. John Traver with the spring house-cleaning.

The action was brought by the Kingston Trust Co. against Kuhlman, Inc., and others, and the sale was originally set for October 6, 1933. It is being postponed pending a decision by Judge John T. Loughran in an action granting the title to the property.

Where to Find Scallops

In the cooler waters of the New York and New England coast there are large quantities of a delicious sea-food known as the scallop. This food consists of a delicate food shell operated by a powerful muscle which is the portion found on the market. The remainder of the scallop is exceedingly tender and although relished by natives will not bear transportation.

Quick Response to "Home Rule" Plan

When Opposition Would Arise To Governor Lehman's Program Was Not Immediately Apparent.

Albany, N. Y., March 5 (AP)—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman's "home rule" plan for drastic reorganization of governmental units upstate brought quick response from interested officials today.

"I'm all for it if it will increase efficiency," declared Mayor Cornelius F. Burns of Troy, chairman of the executive committee of the state conference of mayors.

"I don't know what action the committee will take but personally I believe local taxes can be considerably reduced this way."

From the executive secretary of the conference, William C. Capes, came the opinion that the group would welcome any investigation of local government.

What opposition would arise to the governor's program, which prepares the way for wiping out many of the 13,497 governmental units was not immediately apparent. The need for some steps toward economy has been voiced in both parties. The Republican Senate leadership and the Democratic party are committed to some programs of reform.

Voters in the counties would be given new powers under the plan, which was outlined yesterday in a special message and two measures the governor sent to the legislature. The first measure, a resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to permit voters of each county to select one of several new types of government, was introduced by Assemblyman George B. Kelly, Rochester Democrat.

Assemblyman Joseph D. Nicotia, Buffalo Democrat, introduced the other measure. It is a bill to require the Mastic tax revision commission to make a thorough study and suggest alternative systems of county government.

Governor Lehman, long an advocate of the belief that great economies would grow from consolidations or abolition of certain governmental units, is understood to be greatly interested in action as speedily as possible.

"Functions may be transferred," he said, "from cities, towns, villages, districts and other units to each other or to the county. In turn functions of the county may be transferred to its units."

"By so doing, certain offices, agencies and special districts may be abolished. Duplication and overlapping functions will be eliminated. Useless and insecure offices will be wiped out."

"In short," he said, "we will get a form of local government more up to date in structure, more business-like, more efficient and more economical."

Old Bill Rides Out Shawangunk Flood

Veteran Trapper Has Thrilling Experience as Flood Marks Men Through Window of His Shack and Then Carries Him and Shack Down Mountain Side.

"Well, boys here I am old, but a little damp," said Old Bill Leagle, a veteran hunter and trapper of the Shawangunk Mountains, as he strode into the club rooms of Colonial Chapter, No. 646, of The Tall Story Club, this morning.

"How's the flood up your way?" asked an interested member. "Worst that I recollect," replied Old Bill as he tamped down his pipe and dropped into an easy chair. "In fact," he continued, "I think at first I might not arrive in Kingston at all."

"How's that?" asked another member.

"It was this way," continued Old Bill reflectively. "I was standing outside the shack listening to the blue birds and robins when all of a sudden a wall of water shot out into the open space in front of the shack picking me up like a feather and hurling me through the window of the shack."

"I picked myself up unhurt—the window of the shack was also without panes—and before I could say Jack Robinson I felt the shack and I picked up like a piece of paper in a wind storm and riding the crest of the flood we shot down the mountain side in one of the wildest rides in all my experience."

"I give myself up for lost sure for a minute and then I said to myself, 'Bill don't give up the shack yet' and set my brain to work quick like to figure out some solution of arriving safe at the bottom of the mountain. It took some time figuring, if I do say it myself, but it took more than a mountain flood to kill me yet."

"Yes, yes," but how did you escape?" interrupted a member breathlessly.

"I'll tell you," replied Old Bill modestly. "I stuck out my head through the paneless window and let out one wild yowl after another, and boys I tell you what it was good I thought so quick or I might have arrived at the bottom of the mountain looking like mince meat."

"What had you're hollerer got to do with saving your life?" interrupted another member as Bill paused to refresh his recollection.

"Well," said Old Bill, "you boys have often heard me tell of the powerful echo in my section of the Shawangunk, and whether you believe me or not, when I yelled out of the window the echo came back so powerful strong that it hit the side of the shack and lifted it high above the flood and then another echo caught it and landed it plumb back on the spot from which it was taken."

"Yes, but that don't explain how you got here through the flood," interrupted a club member.

"It was like this," explained Old Bill, "after the echo deposited me and the shack back on the lot I stepped outside and whistled kinder softly to myself and whether you believe it or not it was lucky I whistled soft like for the echo of the whistle caught me unawares and whether you believe it or not deposited me at the foot of the mountain where I landed in a pool of water about a foot deep, which broke the force of the fall."

"And here I am safe and sound, but just a little damp as I said afore."

VICKS COUGH DROP

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—The administration's request for additional millions to keep the CWA payroll alive offered political sharpshooters in the senate an opportunity they long have awaited.

The house showed the appropriation through with something like 40 minutes of debate, but senators showed no disposition for such speed.

Critics of the administration leveled their guns at everything from the way Postmaster General Farley distributes patronage on down the line. It was the nearest thing to a political slugfest witnessed in the senate thus far in the session.

Some of the republican stalwarts, notably Kess of Ohio, smarting under revelations made by the Black armistice investigating committee, were out to even scores. Charges of graft and chicanery in CWA affairs offered them something on which to proceed.

The going got so rough at one time that McNary of Oregon, the republican floor leader, felt it necessary to whisper to Robinson of Indiana, who had the floor, to put a stop to it by refusing to yield to other senators.

Tense, Tenser, Tensest
ALTHOUGH it probably is too early to suggest that senatorial nerves are becoming frayed from the grind of the session, it is true that the atmosphere around the capital daily is becoming more electric.

At the present there are eight federal investigations under way. They range from inquiries into alleged contracts to alleged excess profits paid for army and navy airplanes.

Names of former officials high in government affairs are being dragged into these investigations. One already has been arrested by the senate for alleged destruction of wanted documents. There are hints that other startling things are yet to come.

Hard To Dodge

NO one escapes entirely in such times.

Republicans retort for democratic sleight and democrats for republican insinuations. Scenes like that during debate on the CWA appropriation in the senate crop up regularly and increase in intensity and hard feelings.

This is what the President doubtless has in mind when he insists that congress get through with its work and go home as quickly as possible. It is why the leaders in both houses are pushing for an early adjournment.

Temper become less ragged back home than they do here in Washington.

ST. REMY FIRE COMPANY HELD ITS INSTALLATION.

St. Remy, March 8.—The St. Remy fire department held its annual installation of officers and banquet at their newly decorated fire house Tuesday evening, with a large turnout of members and prominent guests.

After the invocation by the department chaplain, the Rev. Philip Goertz, a brief business meeting presided over by Chief Fischer was held. The third annual report of the department's finances was given by Trustee Harry Elsworth. The report was accurate in every detail and very well read. Trustee Elsworth's report shows that the company is steadily getting out of debt. Funds received last year through entertainments and donations, $5,295.33. The expenditures were $5,497.71. The assets of the company are $5,395 and the liability $510.

The installing of the officers was conducted by Judge Henry McKenzie. Assisting him was Fred Spinnewebber. These gentlemen have both acted as installing officers for the St. Remy fire department ever since the company was organized. Judge McKenzie stated that to his knowledge the St. Remy department is the only one in the state having an installation, and he was proud and happy to be their installing officer. Officers installed were: Chief, Phil Fischer, Sr.; captain, Robert Hoffman; first lieutenant, Donald Wells; second lieutenant, Walter Helmich; secretary, Phil Fischer, Jr.; trustees, Samuel Barnett and Julius Eckert; wardens, George Attanas, Cornelius Helmich, William Holderrin, John Blawie; chaplain, the Rev. Philip Goertz.

Directly after the installation a roast pork supper was served which was prepared by the chef, G. Attanas, and the assistant chef, A. Longyear. They were assisted by Firemen W. Hoelderlin, J. Brown, J. Eckert, W. Helmich, C. Helmich, D. Wells, R. Hoffman, A. Barnett, P. Fischer, Jr., and K. Ennst. The way the meal was enjoyed proved that Chief Attanas "knows" his cooking. Music during supper was supplied by Brothers J. Remus and E. Terpening.

Chief Fischer opened the after-dinner speeches by welcoming all those present and thanked the members for re-electing him as their chief and asked their cooperation.

In keeping the St. Remy fire department up to the standards it now holds, he thanked Judge McKenzie and Mr. Spinnewebber for again installing the officers.

Next to be heard was the Hon. Judge Henry McKenzie of Port Ewen, who said he was glad to be present this year and thanked the members for inviting him. Some of the experiences of the Kingston fire department as related by the Judge while he was a member were both interesting and amusing.

Chief Joseph Murphy of the Kingston fire department also spoke. Chief Murphy's talk was very timely and instructive.

Fred Spinnewebber of Port Ewen was the next to speak and he congratulated the members on their wonderful display of cooperation.

Next heard from was the town supervisor, Roscoe Elsworth, of Port Ewen, who thanked the members for himself and the town board for their invitation and said they deeply appreciated them.

The next gentleman called upon was the Rev. Philip Goertz of Port Ewen, the department chaplain. Mr. Goertz said he was proud to be a member of the company and stated he always uses St. Remy as an example of true community spirit.

Town Clerk Charles W. Card of Port Ewen gave a very appropriate talk on the new rulings of the fire underwriters which was very instructive to the members.

Chief Fischer made the closing remarks. He asked the members to heed to the warning of Chief Murphy "In keeping your head at all times." Chief Fischer cited some cases where presence of mind would have saved life and property.

The master of ceremonies for the evening was Secretary Philip Fischer, Jr.

Back From Burner Show
Fred M. Dressel, plumbing and heating contractor of 72 Albany avenue, at Broadway, has just returned from the National Oil Burner Show held at Philadelphia. While there he was a guest of the S. T. Johnson Oil Burner Co., manufacturers of oil burning equipment since 1905, for whom Mr. Dressel wholesales and retails in this territory. At the Johnson display were shown intermediate sizes which allows them to meet the requirements of all types and sizes of heating plants and power plants. Much interest was shown in both the interchangeable gas heat unit and the junior size oil heat unit, designed for home heating and domestic hot water.

After only a few bottles I was up and doing my work cheerfully. Childbirth was very easy, thanks to your medicine."—Mrs. John Ellis, 6300 So. Campbell Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

Parsonage—Howard Barker, 34, was discharged from the Homeopathic Hospital several days ago after a lengthy stay because of a broken leg.

Yesterday police were summoned to an accident call. They found Barker's car smashed against a tree and Barker on the running board with a broken leg—the same one that had been fractured before.

"Where shall we take you?" asked the officers.

"Homeopathic Hospital," promptly replied Barker.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROSEMARY COONS
HOLLYWOOD—Some interesting innovations in financial technique set "The Cat and the Fiddle" apart from the average Hollywood movie with music.

The story of Victor (Norman Macdonald), ambitious young composer of better music, and Shirley (Jeanette MacDonald), who composes jazz melodies with equal earnestness, has undergone many changes from its original stage version, but the musical melodies of the operetta all have been retained for the screen.

William K. Howard, directing, adhered to the idea of "music in motion," and from the opening sequence, which shows Jeanette and Norman together in Broadway, there is action along with the music. Since it is a story of musical composers, who might express themselves naturally in song, the introduction of melodies seems to have that spontaneity so often lacking in films of the type.

"Street Symphony"

Among the novelties offered is a "street symphony" in which Norman, frantically seeking a certain taxi-driver, is confused by the sounds of many cab horns, which blend or conflict into a bit of modern composition. Another is the reprise to a solo song, by Norman in Jeanette's elegant Paris apartment. Through an open window the wind plays upon the crystal pendants of the chandeliers and lamps, evoking tinkling melody that is an echo of the song.

The picture ends with scenes from Norman's operetta (done in the improved color process), and that too is different—the action on the stage rounds out the plot of the film instead of being presented for the sake of climactic spectacle.

The supporting cast includes Frank Morgan, Jean Harlow, Charles Butterworth (as a very bad harpist), and Vivienne Segal.

Real Life Blush

An actress who brought her small son with her from New York tells of his eagerness to see—in person—the comedians Laurel and Hardy.

She told the boy that she knew them.

"But mother," he protested, "You couldn't know them. They do such common things!"

At The Theatres

Kingston: "All of Me." The biggest part of this show in its cast, one of the finest and most talented the Paramount people can offer. Fredric March, George Raft, Miriam Hopkins, Helen Mack, William Collier, Sr., and Nella Walker are all to be seen doing their bit in this picture, a picture that concerns the much debated and kicked around subject of love. Fredric March and Miriam Hopkins contemplate marriage, but despite their money and social position, Miriam is afraid that marriage will kill love. Along comes ex-convict George Raft and his sweetheart, Helen Mack, who incidentally expects to be a mother shortly. They prove that love can surmount all obstacles, big and small, and the little separatist of Fredric March and Miriam Hopkins are put to shame by the example set forth by George Raft and Helen Mack. The children won't thrill over this show, but grownups will find it interesting and well acted.

Orpheum: "The Invisible Man." The imagination of H. G. Wells is the reason for this thriller. A chemist, meaning around with formulae, discovers the blending of certain potent chemicals capable of making the human body invisible. He swallows a dose, and becomes invisible. Speech is there, sight is there, feeling is there, but when he dresses before the camera, he places his clothes over nothing but the atmosphere. In this state he discovers he is unable to bring himself back to visibility, so he goes partly insane. He decides he will rule the world, kill off his enemies and be a deposed, invisible power on earth. The police decide to capture and kill him, and the search for this living, unseen human being is one of the maddest chases in movie history. Gloria Stuart, Claude Rains, Dudley Digges, Henry Travers and William Harrigan are in the cast.

Broadway: "Vauderville" and "Three-Cornered Moon." Four special acts of vaudeville are offered on the Broadway stage, headed by "Marie and Pals," a miniature indoor circus treat; "Richard Castle and Ray," a dance presentation; and the comedy offering of "Parker Wynn and Company." One other act, as yet unannounced, completes the program. "Three-Cornered Moon," with Richard Arlen, Claudette Colbert, Mary Boland, Hardie Albright, Lyda Roberti, Joan Marsh, Tom Brown, William Bakewell and Wallace Ford tells in an interesting and delightful manner the story of a flighty woman who invests and loses the family fortune. She can't understand why her fiancé is so low an ebb, and she is rather dared by the self-descent from riches to poverty. What should be a tragedy, turns out to be one of the laugh riots of the year because of the manner in which this play is directed and acted. The children get jobs, people fall in love, everything is happy-go-lucky, but everyone has fun. Good entertainment.

Tomorrow: "Moulin Rouge." It seems that most of the lady stars find it necessary to delve into the delights of musical comedy, so here we find Constance Bennett, always billed as a sophisticated and mature actress, doing her stuff in song and rhythm, against a background of dance sets, chorus beauties and radio stars. Strange as it seems, Miss Bennett is at her very best in this musical romance, in fact she has never made a better picture. The plot concerns a famous French actress, and goes places by doing so. Her husband gets all mixed up with this and her personality, and his life is one long tale of honor and understandable self-sacrifice. Wearing gorgeous costumes, Constance Bennett dominates the show with an exceptional performance, but Franchot Tone, like the lumbos, Tullio Carminati, and the Boswell Sisters all get their share of glory. There are some rare dance scenes in this show, as well as some excellent songs and singing.

Mayer Commends Local Boy Scouts

The following letter was received by Scout Executive Wright from Mayor Heiselman, commending the Scouts for their excellent work in the recent campaign to collect clothing, bedding and household articles for the needy. The work was in response to President Roosevelt's radio appeal.

City of Kingston, N. Y., March 7,
CITY OF KINGSTON
NEW YORK

March 7, 1934.
Mr. W. A. Wright,
Scout Executive, Boy Scouts of America,
Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Wright:
Permit me to take this opportunity to thank you, and through you, the scout masters and boy scouts of the city, for the splendid results achieved in the recent campaign to collect clothing, bedding and household articles for the needy which was made in response to the President's recent radio appeal.

Over 3,000 articles of wearing apparel and bedding, and almost 100 articles of household furniture, were collected. This excellent accomplishment was brought about by the helpful cooperation of our householders who donated the articles, coupled with the generosity of those who furnished trucks, backed up by space contributed by our local press, and executed by the Boy Scouts with fine energy and the will to serve.

The articles collected are now being repaired and renovated by the CWA clothing bureau and will be distributed to those in dire need. Thus the boy scouts, not only in Kingston, but all over the country, have performed another "good turn" which demonstrates again their value and usefulness in an emergency and their devotion to the high ideals of their organization.

Yours truly,
(Signed) C. J. HEISELMAN,
Mayor.

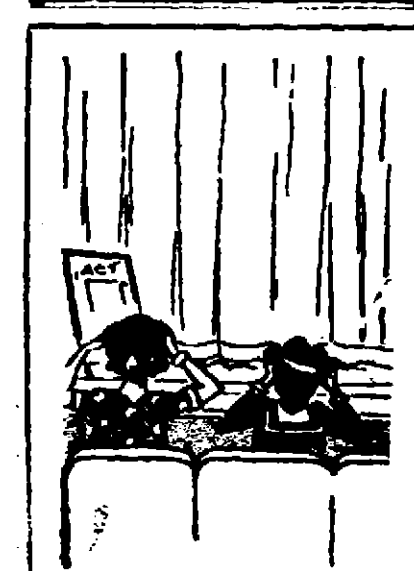

Articles collected by various troops:

Clothing—381 pairs shoes, 112 pairs arctics and rubbers, 50 boys' coats, 14 3-piece suits, 5 raincoats, 21 sets underwear, 21 boys' jackets, 17 overcoats, 25 knickerbockers, 56 waists and shirts, 253 pairs hose, 10 girls' underwear, 31 slips, 504 girls' and ladies' dresses, 76 ladies' coats (to be cut up for pants), 150 ladies' coats, 47 blouses, 70 sweaters, 17 blouses, 25 quilts, 19 bed spreads, 75 baby miscellaneous, 24 men's hats, 15 boys' hats, 97 ladies' hats, 17 scarfs, 53 pairs men's trousers, 32 men's vests, 102 men's coats, 97 overcoats, 75 men's shirts, 27 ladies' aprons, 271 men's and women's miscellaneous, 73 men's underwear, 17 suits, 25 bathrobes, total 3,152.

"Holiday" Tonight At Kingston High

"Holiday", Philip Barry's most successful comedy, will be presented this evening at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium. Herzog directs the play, with Frances Flinn, Marion Byrne and James Fowler in the leading roles. A large number of tickets have been exchanged for reserved seats and many more are expected to be purchased at the door this evening.

The Stage Is Set

Local Welfare Board Commended by CWA

The following letter has been received by the Local Welfare Board:

March 8th, 1934.

Dear Commissioner Halloran:
The administration wishes to express to you personally its appreciation of the resolution and cooperative attitude taken by the Public Welfare Commissioners at your recent conference where you as a group accepted the heavy responsibility of investigating Civil Works Administration workers to determine their need.

As the new relief program is being developed by the Federal Government your position as relief administrator is becoming increasingly more important and arduous, and I would like to reiterate our appreciation of your assuming a major part in the new program.

I want to assure you now that I have kept in close contact with Washington and have been informed that a definite constructive program is being set into operation which will provide care for the needy unemployed. This work program will to some extent alleviate the hardship caused by the Federal Government's demobilization of the CWA program. Although all the

DRINK HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

Says you really feel clean, sweet and fresh inside, and are seldom ill.

If you are accustomed to wake up with a coated tongue, foul breath or a dull, dizzy headache; or, if your meals sour and turn into gas and acids, you have a real surprise awaiting you.

Tomorrow morning, immediately upon arising, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is intended to first neutralize and then wash out of your stomach, liver, kidneys and thirty feet of intestines all the indigestible waste, poisons, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal.

Those subject to sick headaches, backaches, bilious attacks, constipation or any form of stomach trouble, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin enjoying this morning inside-bath.

Just as hot water and soap cleanse, purify and freshen the skin, so hot water and a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Limestone phosphate is an inexpensive white powder and almost tasteless.—Adv.

details have not been worked out we are assured that work will be provided on a relief basis to needy unemployed in the state, and that as much hardship as can be prevented, will be. Federal funds and state funds will be distributed in helping to meet the local unemployment problem.

You will receive more definite information on the new Federal program as soon as we have it available. Thanking you again for your helpful cooperation.

Very truly yours,

Famous Sons of Famous Fathers

NO. 9—THE FAIRBANKSES : SCREEN STARS

This is the ninth of a series of 15 articles on America's famous father-and-son combinations.

By ROBERT COONS.

Hollywood, (AP).—More than 15 years ago a charming actress approached her friend, Douglas Fairbanks, and mentioned that she had been thinking of letting her small son do pictures.

Fairbanks stormed, raged, orated. "No child of mine will ever go into pictures!" he concluded.

The actress was left with no doubt that Douglas Fairbanks, then approaching the days of his greatest fame as a film star, emphatically opposed the employment of children in pictures. The incident terminated that friendship.

About the same time a pale, slender, dreamy adolescent who lived with his mother in the Latin quarter of Paris was studying hard to become an actor. He studied art also, but acting had become his burning ambition. He studied it alone, in his room, enacting plays by himself.

He was Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. Soon, in England, the Fairbankses, father and son, will make a film together. Fairbanks, Sr., long ago gave his approval to Fairbanks, Jr.'s acting urge.

Opposition From Father. Whether young Doug would have been an actor regardless of his heritage is problematical. He certainly had no encouragement from his father. Any influence that the athletic film star had in the matter was in the nature of stern opposition.

There had never been any close father-son relationship between the two. After Fairbanks and Beth Sully, young Doug's mother, were divorced, the boy went to Paris with her to study art. They spent a year in France, returned to Hollywood, then went abroad again.

Doug, Jr., looking back on this time, has admitted that he felt a certain strain in his relations with his father. They were friendly, but not close. In character and personality they were extreme opposites.

The father was athletic, positive, action-loving. The son was a dreamer, esthetic, poetically inclined, certainly not athletic. They had little in common besides their name.

Father's Fame Helped.

In 1922 Doug, Jr., made his first film. Paid $2,000 a week for it, he was dependent when he learned film. Paid $2,000 a week for it, he was dependent when he learned film. Paid $2,000 a week for it, he was dependent when he learned film.

Two years later they met in Paris. Doug, Sr., offered to finance Doug, Jr., in an art course if he would forsake acting permanently. The boy refused and they parted with words. Shortly the war called him back, publicly apologized, and said he would no longer withhold his approval of an acting career for young Doug.

And young Doug returned to pictures, this time at $200 a week. Doug, Sr., stood by and let his son carve his own way in the profession. Once, when the boy's career seemed headed for the rocks, Fairbanks stepped in and helped "straighten him out." Today Doug, Jr., is a star in his own right—and Doug, Sr., applauds.

Based On Friendship.

Now, perhaps, the two are closer together than ever before. They sailed to Europe together last spring. Their matrimonial difficulties were climaxed about the same time Doug, Jr., growing up, had acquired at least a normal interest in sports, while retaining his fervent interest in intellectual pursuits. Still a "mental snob"—as he once termed himself—he had broadened his outlook and become more the "mixer."

But it is as friends rather than as father and son that their relationship is strongest, it would appear.

Once Doug, Jr., was asked to comment on his father's separation from Mary Pickford.

"What my father does," he answered, "is none of my business. Minding your own business is the basis of true friendship. I think, unless you're asked otherwise, my father has never discussed the separation with me."

Theirs is Hollywood's most unusual "father and son" story.

Talks to parents

Forewarned

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH
One important scene in a current play shows the discomfort of a father, trying to teach his son what sometimes are called the "facts of life." In an interview that draws many laughs the father runs up against the unsuspected sophistication of his son and abandons the instruction as unnecessary.

The stage here, as so often, is of value as a criticism of life, and may well deserve attention. There is no use waiting until a child is half-grown and then making a ceremony of initiating him into secrets, most of which he has by that time learned on the streets and in school. Nor is it wise for parents to make an embarrassing mystery of them.

The only way to teach a child is by answering his questions when they are asked, in a casual and impersonal way. It is not necessary to give more information than the child has asked for, or to make a solemn ceremony of the occasion. The more matter of fact and casual the reply can be made the better.

Nor does the parent need to feel embarrassment if he can dissociate his own feelings and treat the inquiry in an objective and impersonal way. Anything in the world can be discussed if it is taken impersonally, and fathers and mothers, if they are in close contact with their children, eventually will learn to be prepared for the most amazing topics of conversation.

The child who learns as he inquires will never be conscious of any surprise or shock, but will reach manhood or womanhood, informed and unafraid of how and when he received his information. Nor will he in childhood be easily shocked or misled by the rebellion information and misinformation current among the young.

NEW MODEL MAN TO EMERGE FROM FASCIST TRAINING

Milan, Italy, (AP).—The fascist regime is forging a new type of man, described as the possessor of "virtue humility."

He will be an individualist, says a blackshirt forecast of the future generations, only in so far as individual characteristics benefit society in general.

The "negative" attributes of individualism that he will know nothing of are listed as: vanity, vanity, desire for luxury and rebellion against fundamental morals. His "virtue humility" will be expressed in a profound respect for the state and unquestioning obedience to rules that enhance the welfare of the people.

An article published in Premier Mussolini's newspaper, Il Popolo d'Italia, says the new man will be a welcome relief from the types produced by the present regime.

duced by the French and Russian revolutions.

The French revolution, it declares, gave the world a man marked by "exaggerated egotism," while the soviet produced a "single cell type lacking in physiognomy, form, energy or will."

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 9 (AP).—Stock market was mostly improved in financial markets today, but trading was not heavy. Bond prices were irregular during most of the business hours.

Stocks were fairly active on the upside for a short time after the opening, but profit taking soon appeared and many gains were either pared or transformed into losses. Strength was displayed by a few speculative favorites, including some Canadian stocks.

Crude oil and rubber were advanced, but cotton eased. Bonds were narrow, as were international dollar rates.

Shares of Canadian Pacific drew a favorable following with a gain of

7 Trucks, Five Cars Ruined in Cohoes Fire

Cohoes, N. Y., March 9 (AP).—Seven huge freight trucks with trailers and five automobiles were destroyed by a fire which early today swept a large garage here with estimated damage of $100,000. The origin was unknown.

Firemen, seeing the futility of battling the garage blaze, confined their efforts to saving an adjoining house owned by the garage proprietor, Peter Lamora. The latter operated one of the largest trucking businesses in the Albany area.

Funeral services from the late home Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with interment in Trinity cemetery, Saugerties.

West Shokan, March 9.—The funeral of Mrs. Belle Conro was held at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon, March 8, at the Jordan home, 100 Broadhead Heights. The elegant silver finished cypress casket containing the remains of Mrs. Conro stood in the cozy parlor of her girlhood home, flanked by a beautiful display of floral tributes. The service was simple, in keeping with the quiet and beautiful life of the deceased. The Rev. Mr. Lockett, pastor of the Tongue M. E. Church, delivered the brief, yet impressive eulogy. There was no singing. The pall bearers were Leslie Lyons of Kingston, Ira Nichols, Harlowe and Elwyn Davis, neighbors. A large funeral cortege proceeded to the Woodstock cemetery where the body was temporarily placed in the cooling vault. Funeral will later take place in the family plot in Tongue cemetery. Mrs. Conro was in the 65th year of her age. Her husband died some years ago in New York city. For a number of years she, in connection with her son and wife, had maintained a home in Kingston on St. James street. Mrs. Conro possessed of a quiet and inobtrusive nature, was highly esteemed among a wide circle of friends. She was a most kind and devoted mother and sister. Besides her only son, William Francis, she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Henry Delamater of Kingston, and Miss Sarah Jordan, two brothers, William and Frank, also unmarried. The eldest brother, John, resides at West Shokan Heights. A younger half-brother, Fred John, resides at Lake Hill. There are also four nephews, Burton, Harry and Walter Jordan of Roxbury, and John, Jr., of Ithaca. The death of Mrs. Conro is the first break in the entire family of children. The farm home, which is one of the most up-to-date and productive in the town of Otsego, has been kept ritually intact by the heirs since the death of the father, William Jordan, in 1885. The mother re-married a Mr. Johnson, whom she survived till 1919. The various members of this substantial family are well known and esteemed in their respective spheres of life.

more than a point. Dominion Stores got up to 2 and International Nickel was quite active, but virtually unchanged. The Smelting, Pitting Mines and Refining advanced about a point each, while Homestake was up 4 on a few ticks. Dresser Manufacturing and Hays Body were given a run for gain of a point or more. United Alcohols advanced a point. The oil improved, but the rail, utilities, motors and steels eased. United Aircraft dropped nearly 2 points and the other aviation issues were soft.

Carloadings for the week ended March 7, were up 30,756 over the previous week, but this was much less than the seasonal gain owing to the abnormal weather conditions during the period.

Transportation stocks and bonds from abroad were reported to have depreciated considerably in the past week or so, although shrewdly placed were being maintained here by leading European traders. There was said to be little change in the short account from its status a month ago. At the same time, a few brokers found that buying recently has been a little better than the selling.

Insull May Travel Physician Reports

Albany, March 9 (AP).—The ministry of the interior was advised today by physicians that Samuel Insull, Sr., former Chicago utilities operator, wanted no charges of embezzlement, would travel if precautions were taken to guard his health.

The 48 hours expired yesterday, but Insull is still in Albany and, from all indications, intending to stay here.

Whippet, Like Greyhound, Only Smaller in Stature

Aside from the marked degree of importance and excitability, from his earlier antecedents, the whippet possesses all the attributes of his larger prototype, the greyhound. Developed originally for the purpose of coursing rabbits, this little racer, in appearance, a greyhound in miniature, is likewise a light-hunter, observes an authority in the Los Angeles Times.

The cruel sport of rabbit-hunting long practiced in Europe, had been abolished by the time the dog became popular in America. The sport gradually improved to its attained perfection of racing, which can hardly be termed "coursing" as it does not test the dog's racing capabilities. No rabbit is used. Instead, a rag or towel, waved frantically beyond the finish line, is used to induce the dogs to race to a goal at the end of a 300-yard straightaway that is divided into lanes to prevent interference between the competitors. A well-trained Whippet covers the distance in less than twelve seconds, or approximately twice as fast as a man's ability.

No more affectionate animal is to be found. And for elegance of style and classical, graceful movement, few dogs can equal the Whippet. He is exceptionally clean in habits and an excellent pet for children.

Fish Grows Like Dog; Another Grunts Like Pig

Though we generally think of fishes as silent creatures, persons who have made an extensive study of their habits have discovered quite a few species that are capable of producing sound. The New York Times relates. Among these are the South American catfish, which grows like a dog, the guano, which grunts like a pig and the mangle, which not only whistles and bellows but purrs much like a cat. The musical contribution of our own American catfish is a noise which sounds like a person grinding his teeth, while the horse mackerel and the sunfish common to British waters make similar noises. The drummer fish of the Florida coast lives up to its name.

A story from Mexico tells of the remarkable vocal efforts of the so-called Mexican singing fish, or canary fish. These fishes, traveling in bodies several hundred strong at certain times of the year, produce a sound by contraction of their air bladders that is melo-dious to a musical note as it filters through the water to a listener in a boat above them. And according to the Fishing Gazette, natives of certain regions in South America declare they can hear the "singing fishes" common to that locality coming from quite a distance, not by splashing or jumping but from the noise which they make under water.

Robin Hood

How much truth there is in the tale about the medieval hero Robin Hood is unknown.

Unsuccessful attempts have been made to prove his real existence. His career, as eventually developed, has all the details of authentic history. But there is nothing to be found concerning him beyond the content of the old ballads, of which there are some forty. The oldest known to exist is assigned to about the year 1400. There were earlier ones, however, because the Fourteenth century "Piers Plowman" refers to "rymes of Robyn Hood." The time in which Robin Hood is supposed to have had his being was during the reign of Richard I (1189-99). Some have attempted to show that the gallant outlaw of Sherwood Forest was simply an elf of Germanic folk tales.

Pillar of Delhi

The wrought iron pillar of Delhi (the ancient capital of India), set up about 415 A. D. by Kumaragupta I. in honor of his father, is over 23 feet in height and weighs more than 6 tons. Its resistance to corrosion is a fact that has not so far been explained. An eminent metallurgist made a chemical analysis and a metallurgical examination of a specimen from the pillar and did not find anything which would explain its resistance to corrosion.—Washington Star.

Cause of Northern Lights

Aurora Borealis or North Lights is a vast electrical discharge, but the exact nature is unknown. According to one theory, it is caused by the action of positive electricity from the surfaces of tropical waters, which flow toward the polar regions on high aerial currents, and there descend toward the earth and come in contact with the earth's negative electricity and produce luminous discharges.

"He Got the Jack"

"He's got the muck." It was formerly the custom for employers to be given the test-bags of their mechanics while the latter were in their employ. If one of these mechanics was discharged he would be given back his bag or sack for his tools, so that he might go and seek another post. This seems the most reasonable derivation for the phrase, and it has received the widest acceptance.

Defense Expert Says Handwriting Strew's

First Defense Witness Scores Specimens of Writing Produced by Margaret Pendill, co-chairman of the Ladies' Auxiliary at the new Kingston Municipal Auditorium on Easter Monday. Additional committees for the ball have been announced as follows:

Court Room, Albany, N. Y., March 9 (AP).—Albert H. Hamilton, Auburn handwriting expert, testifying today for Manly Strew, accused kidnaper, said if samples of Strew's writing were obtained by force "they are not worth the paper they are written on."

Hamilton, first defense witness, testified the writing of Strew and the writing in ransom notes received by the family of John J. O'Connell, abduction victim, were similar. He stressed, however, that handwriting dictated and made under restraint was not good evidence.

The state introduced three authorities on writing who said the handwriting of Strew was the same as that of the ransom letters.

Daniel H. Prior, attorney for Strew, contends the Strew samples were dictated by policemen after Strew's apprehension on July 30, last.

Hamilton said Joseph J. Casey, assistant district attorney, submitted the ransom notes and handwriting specimens to him last August and asked his opinion.

The expert declared he told Casey it would be necessary for him to make his own handwriting test of the defendant. After several exchanges of letters between Hamilton and the district attorney he dropped out of the case.

Williams To Lead Tennis Players In International

By FOSTER HARRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer
New York, March 9 (AP).—The United States Tennis Association today announced that it has selected a new international tennis team to represent the United States in the Davis Cup tournament, which will begin in 1934.

The announcement was made by President Walter H. Hays, who said that the new team will be headed by Bill Williams, who was captain of the team from 1931 through 1933, and who was leader of America's international tennis team in 1934.

The announcement was made at a meeting of the United States Tennis Association, which was held at the New York City Athletic Club. The meeting was attended by Hays, Williams, and other members of the association.

Williams brings both experience and a knowledge of present players to his task. He was on the team from 1931 through 1933, during which time American tennis reached its peak, and was a competitor no later than last fall in the national championships, winning through the third round. No other tennis leader with the exception of William T. Tilden, who can match that record and Tilden as a professional, is outside the U. S. L. T. A. fold.

Know Their Tennis.
Williams won his first major title, the Intercollegiate, in 1912, as Harvard undergraduate and the same year played on his first Davis Cup team which won the cup from England.

In addition to Williams three other members of the selection committee are former team members—Ward and Davis who played on the first team in 1900 and 1901, who was national champion and a team member in 1930. The others all have been closely connected with Davis Cup activities in recent years.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOLD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

The young Charles (Casey) Stengel is going to make some progress with the Brooklyn baseball club in that he has a real sense of humor. Without it, a less courageous man would have balked at the idea of taking charge of a notable collection of misfits as there is in the major leagues, not even excepting the Cincinnati Reds.

"His sense of humor may band-aid up as well as help him, however," remarked Memphis Bill Terry, the big boss of the Giants, when I discussed Stengel's appointment at the Miami Beach camp of the world champion. "Don't forget that most of the fellows on the Dodgers have been kidding and joshing with Casey while he was just a coach. That kind of stuff was all right, of course, so long as Casey didn't have to say the final word about what they would or would not do."

"Now that Stengel is in full charge, he won't be able to sit down and laugh everything off or relieve the situation by telling some funny stories. I don't mean he will have to take his job too seriously, but I have found out that it means a lot of planning and worrying that I didn't anticipate. And if you think it's tough handling a bunch of world champions, what do you think Casey will find things like?"

Must Restore Harmony
Terry wasn't trying to heap any more coals on the fires of indignation he aroused in Brooklyn this winter by the casual wisecracks made during a fanning session, that he "wondered whether the Dodgers were still in the National League." What he meant was that he had not heard much about the club during the winter.

But the remark seems to have given Brooklyn what it needed—(1) something to get sore about and (2) a rallying point from which to begin the reconstruction under a new manager, instead of the scholarly Max Carey.

Stengel's first job will be to restore harmony among the players. It is no secret there was ill-feeling and much working at cross-purposes under Carey, regardless of whose fault it may have been. Max undoubtedly was heavily handicapped trying to engineer the deals he thought would strengthen the team. Casey may encounter similar trouble, unless he gets better cooperation from the board of directors representing perhaps the most quarrelsome ownership in the big league family.

Stengel's background is in his favor. He was on the last two Dodgers pennant winners in 1916 and 1920. He played on three championship teams with the Giants. After three seasons in effect was "Stengel 2, Yankees 1." Casey's home runs had decided two games. He later won a pennant with one Toledo club of the American Association despite the fact the team was in financial straits most of the season and there were times, Casey recalled, "when I was managing three teams—one going, one on the field and another coming."

A Favorite Stengel Yarn
One of the Stengel yarns I like best is the run-in he had one time with Bill Klem. Casey had kicked on a third called strike and Klem, very much on his dignity that afternoon, remarked, "You're out and unless you get away from here right away, I'll put you out of the game."

This abruptness caught Stengel a trifle off guard. He had no immediate comeback but he was not to be outwitted altogether. The next time he went to the plate, he used some pretext to renew the argument with Klem, who shot back: "I told you to keep quiet. One word more and you're through for the afternoon." Whereupon Stengel bowed, looked apologetic and took off his cap, from under which a sparrow flew out!

Seventh Ward Dems Go To Port Jervis, Connelly Aces Next

The Seventh Ward Democrats are booked to play in Port Jervis tonight against the basketball team representing that community, which defeated them by two points some time ago at Holy Cross Hall.

It is the hope of the Dems to even the standing tonight. In the lineup of the Kingston group are Melville, Mains, Jim and Sonny Woods, T. and "Dutch" Ewel, E. Norton and C. Derrenbacher.

The players and fans who have chartered a bus will leave for Port Jervis from the Democratic Club in the Seventh Ward at 4 o'clock.

Saturday night the Dems will play their regular weekly game at Holy Cross, Pine Grove avenue, meeting as opponents the Connelly Aces. This game is slated for 8 o'clock. There will be two prelims, one at 6 and another at 8 between the Falcons and Spartans.

County Series Starts Tonight, Luckies-Rosendale Opponents

The widely heralded series for the pro basketball championship of Ulster county opens tonight at White Eagle Hall, Delaware avenue, opponents in the inaugural being Jack Troy's Luckies and the Rosendale Firemen. Pete Bruck's All Stars, representing Stone Ridge, is the other quintet in the three-cornered fight.

Starting time of the duel, which is expected to pack the White Eagle to capacity, is 8:30 o'clock. There will be a preliminary at 8:30 between the League of Nations and the Irish Block Five.

Both clubs will use their regular players: Luckies—"Chips" Rhymer and "Bing" Van Etten, forwards; Pete Schline, center; Dan Joyce, Phil Kelly and Kelly guards.
Rosendale—Gil Kelder and Norm Niles, forwards; Hank Krum, center; Jimmy Merritt and Joe Dulin, guards.

Inquiries among the basketball fans have stamped neither club as the favorite to win the takeoff, although Managers Delaney and Baxter of the Firemen point to two previous victories over the Luckies as an indication that their men are superior and are bound to win. "Dolly" Tensio, mentor of the Luckies, unfolds the record of his club—12 victories out of 17 games—and says the two decisions dropped to Rosendale were fluky and that his tossers will win tonight.

The keen rivalry between the two outfits is expected to draw a capacity crowd to the game.
The second contest of the series will be at Rosendale Saturday night. In this match the Firemen will tangle with Pete Bruck's basketballers, who broke even with them in two games already played just as they did with the Luckies.

Manager Delaney, who seems to be exceptionally interested in the tournament, reports that many Rosendale fans have requested tickets for the entire tournament, and predicts his Firemen will be champions of Ulster county when it is over.

The approved schedule for the championship is as follows:

Lucky Five
March 14—at Stone Ridge.
March 17—at Rosendale.
March 20—at Stone Ridge.
March 23—at Rosendale.

Rosendale Firemen
March 9—at White Eagle.

DETROIT AND CANADIENS LEAD HOCKEY DIVISIONS

New York, March 9 (AP).—Only the simple matter of playing the last dozen or so games on the schedule remained today for the National Hockey League before the playoffs start two weeks hence. Barring a few possible changes, which last night's results relegated to the realm of mathematics, and the second-place arguments between the New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks in the Canadian division and the Canadiens and Maroons of Montreal in the Canadian group, all important matters about the standings were settled.

Detroit virtually clinched the American division lead last night by walloping Chicago 2-0 while the Rangers played a 2-2 draw with the Maroons. This gave the Wings a six point lead over the New York club, which went into second by a point over Chicago. Detroit needs only three points in its last three games to clinch first place.

The Canadiens settled the Canadian division argument for all practical purposes when they turned back the New York Americans 2 to 0. Ottawa beat Toronto 2 to 1.

CLIPPING AT SPORTS

Battle of the Centers
Basketball fans going to the county series opener between the Luckies and Rosendale tonight hope to see a real duel in the center of the court when Hank Krum, one of the best pivots, does the jumping for Rosendale and Pete Schline for the opposing quintet at White Eagle Hall.

Krum has long been one of the outstanding centers of Kingston, beginning his career in the Grade School League, playing with No. 4, and continuing in the old Sunday School loop, finally breaking into pro ball at an early age.

"Powerful Pete," as the captain of the Luckies is known to his teammates, is at the peak of his career, says Manager "Dolly" Tensio, who picks him to outhouse "Fire Chief" Hank Krum tonight.

Combinations After Sioux
A challenge has been received from the Combination Five during the Port Ewen Sioux out of their wigwam. The combinations include J. Becker and F. Celuch, forwards; A. Pelcham, center; J. Gresham and H. Baltz and H. Bower, guards. Jimmy Becker is manager of the team and may be reached by phoning 1339.

Thanks to Chick Evans
In Northwest University's graduating class this year are two youths whose college educations resulted in part from their ability on the golf course—not as players, but as caddies, says an Associated Press story from Evanston, Ill.

A longtime caddy who developed into a great star but who never forgot the days when he trudged the fairways carrying a bag of golf sticks, made their college education possible—Chick Evans, winner of both the national open and the national amateur championships in 1916.

Under W. G. A. Direction
It was four years ago that Evans provided the scholarships and put them under direction of the Western Golf association and the university.

Now the first two recipients, Harold Fink and James McGinnis of Chicago, are winding up their college careers and will receive diplomas in June. Five other "Evans scholars" are now in school.

Two scholarships are awarded annually on an elimination basis. Each club in the association is privileged to nominate one of its caddies and the final selection is based upon scholastic ability, character, physical fitness, years of service as a caddy and leadership qualities.

Two On Purple Varsity
Besides receiving tuition and other financial assistance, the recipients are given individual attention by the university and special quarters in the men's dormitories at reduced rates.

Of the caddies now attending the university Fink and Tom Sallie, a sophomore, are members of the Northwestern golf team. The latter is a stellar player and much is expected of him during the coming season in Big Ten circles.

Training Camp Briefs

Giants-Athletics
Miami, Fla., March 9 (AP).—The New York Giants, looking very much like the team that won the last world's championship, and the Philadelphia Athletics, with Manager Connie Mack the only familiar figure on the field, pry open the exhibition season today in their first game since 1928.

With one or two exceptions Manager Bill Terry planned to open up with his world series lineup. Johnny Vergez has a lame knee and therefore Travis Jackson was expected to hold down third with Blondy Ryan back at shortstop. Hal Schumacher was Memphis Bill's choice as the starting pitcher with Clyde Castleman, a rookie, scheduled to work the second shift.

The Senators
Biloxi, Miss.—Clark Griffith, boss of the Washington Senators, had a major holdout case on his hands today after long negotiation with Cliff Bolton, substitute catcher, and the team's star pinch hitter.

Bolton declined an $800 raise and said he would open a grocery store near his High Point, North Carolina, home unless given more. Griffith said his only future offers would be less, not more.

Dodgers
Orlando, Fla.—Apparently the new National League ball is going to help the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The natives boasted that a ball had never been hit over the right field fence, a wall 14 feet high, at Tiner Park. But yesterday the Dodgers did it thrice.

Glenn Chapman, rookie from Indianapolis, was the first to send the ball the necessary 402 feet. Joe Stripp, third baseman, then drove not only one but two over.

Braves
St. Petersburg, Fla.—Although he has few of anything except pitchers and catchers, Manager Bill McKeane will put his Boston Braves through a full scrub game today.

"I'm sick of hearing these pitchers boast of their hitting ability," he explained. "They'll either show me today or find a new topic of conversation."

Phillies
Winter Haven, Fla.—Dick Bartell, the California captain of the Phillies, has lost his gloom after one day in the National League team's training camp.

"Maybe we are going somewhere after all," was his comment after watching thirteen candidates for pitching berth work out under a brooding sun.

His reasoning is that improved

Vigorous Effort To Amend Sales Tax Bill

So That No Municipality May Share in the Burden Without First Securing Property Taxes.

Albion, N. Y., March 9.—A vigorous effort is being made by the Albion Reformed Church to secure the passage of a bill which would amend the sales tax law so that no municipality may share in the burden of the tax without first securing property taxes.

The bill in its present form does not guarantee relief to property owners, advocates of the amendment claim. They contend that there is nothing to prevent municipalities from receiving the funds from the sales tax and at the same time continuing the present real estate taxes.

A proposal will be made to set up a state board, such as the State Tax Revision Commission recommended, to distribute the sales tax funds. Under this plan, all cities, towns, and villages would be required to show the board that property taxes had actually been reduced before they would be permitted to participate in the returns from the sales tax.

Although there is a growing hope at the Capital that the Fearon-Walker bill will be defeated, some observers have expressed the opinion that it would have a much better chance of approval if it were amended as suggested.

It is understood that Governor Lehman's chief objective to the measure is his fear that it might turn out to be an additional tax instead of a substitute for real estate levies.

The bill now provides that municipalities will receive 90 per cent of the returns from the sales tax, or about $100,000,000. They would be required to use the money to apply on local debts, with the single exception that during the coming fiscal year they might use the money for unemployment relief if they desired to do so.

Senator George R. Fearon, Republican minority leader of the upper House and sponsor of the bill, told a group of property owners in Syracuse last night that the measure would "reduce taxes on real estate approximately 17 per cent, and at the same time would re-establish on a firm basis the wavering credit of our municipalities and would stabilize the price of bonds already issued."

He denied that the bill would permit the sales tax to become an additional burden to the taxpayer. Commenting on this, he said:

"One objection which is raised by those who have no alternative plan is that the bill would simply raise more spending money for the cities—that is, that it would not be used for tax relief but for paying current expenditures which an economical administration might avoid. That statement is false. The bill specifically provides that the funds must be used for the payment of bonds, interest, contributions to the sinking funds or for unemployment relief in lieu of bonds, and cannot be used for current expenses."
